

Francesco Montorsi, MD, FRCS (Hon)

Department of Urology, University Vita-Salute San Raffaele, Milan, Italy

Francesco Montorsi is Professor of Urology and Chairman of the Department of Urology at the Vita-Salute San Raffaele University in Milan, Italy.

He received his medical degree from the University of Milan School of Medicine, where he also completed a residency in Urology. In addition, Prof. Montorsi completed a residency in Andrology at the University of Pisa School of Medicine. Prof. Montorsi's major research interests have included several urological areas with a specific focus on pathophysiology, diagnosis and treatment of prostate cancer, urologic oncology, benign prostatic hyperplasia and sexual dysfunctions.

As a widely published author, Prof. Montorsi has coauthored 1344 peer reviewed journal articles according to PubMed and several book chapters. At present Prof. Montorsi's H-Index is 129 according to Google Scholar. His most recent contributions to the literature have been on the management of urological malignancies, sexual dysfunctions and benign prostatic hyperplasia. In 2018 Prof. Montorsi has been included in the Highly Cited Researchers list produced by Clarivate Analytics, which includes researchers who produced multiple highly cited papers that rank in the top 1% by citations in the field and year in Web of Science.

Prof. Montorsi's articles have been published in many prestigious journals including The New England Journal of Medicine, The Lancet, The Journal of Clinical Oncology and European Urology.

He is a reviewer for many prestigious journals including The New England Journal of Medicine, The Lancet, The Lancet Oncology, JAMA and European Urology.

Between January 2006 and December 2013 Prof. Montorsi served as Editor-in-Chief of European Urology (2018 impact factor: 17.298), the official Journal of the European Association of Urology (EAU). Between 2015 and 2019 Prof Montorsi served as Adjunct Secretary General of EAU.

In 1998 Prof. Montorsi received the Matula Award, assigned by the EAU to the Urologist younger than 40 years of age with the best scientific production.

In 2018 Prof. Montorsi received the Hugh Hampton Young Award, assigned by the American Urological Association for seminal scientific contributions to the study of urologic oncology and andrology, as well as mentorship and global leadership in academic urology. In 2019 Prof. Montorsi has received the Frans Debruyne Lifetime Achievement Award assigned by the EAU for outstanding and important contribution to the activities and development of the EAU.

In 2017 Prof. Montorsi has been elected Honorary Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of England.